

Heras Temporary Fencing

2m high interlocking metal barrier

Product overview

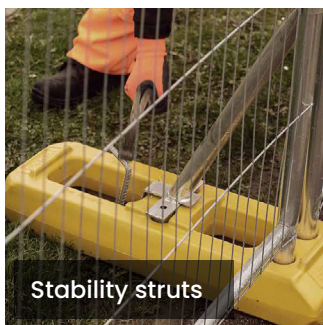

Heras Temporary Fencing is a 2m high, physical, metal mesh barrier that not only provides a visual boundary but also a strong perimeter to prevent intruders from climbing over.

Heras Temporary Fencing is strong; designed to withstand the rigours of a heavy construction site for example. The wire mesh structure is purposely designed to withstand the effects of high winds and storms whereas traditional fencing panels are susceptible to the wind, causing them to shift or fall over.

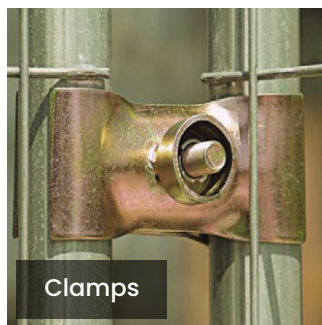

The panels are easy to erect and dismantle, making for rapid installation, and meaning they can be easily repositioned around a site perimeter or vacant premises. Panels are held in place by specially designed 'feet' to keep them upright.
